A Minnesota judge has declared a "virtual deadlock" in the jury deliberating the fate of George Zimmerman, and ordered the courtroom, jury and witnesses to leave while deliberations continued. The 12-member jury was supposed to return their verdict in the highly-watched case in less than 24 hours. However, Judge Debra Nelson declared a "virtual deadlock" late Thursday, giving jury members the rest of the weekend to continue to deliberate. ADVERTISEMENT In a note sent to the jury at the end of Thursday's deliberations, Nelson told the 12 women and seven men they would be sequestered until Monday morning. The jury of six Hispanics and six non-Hispanics had been deadlocked on one count, and remained split on three others, after about 10 hours of deliberations on Thursday. The jury had
